

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

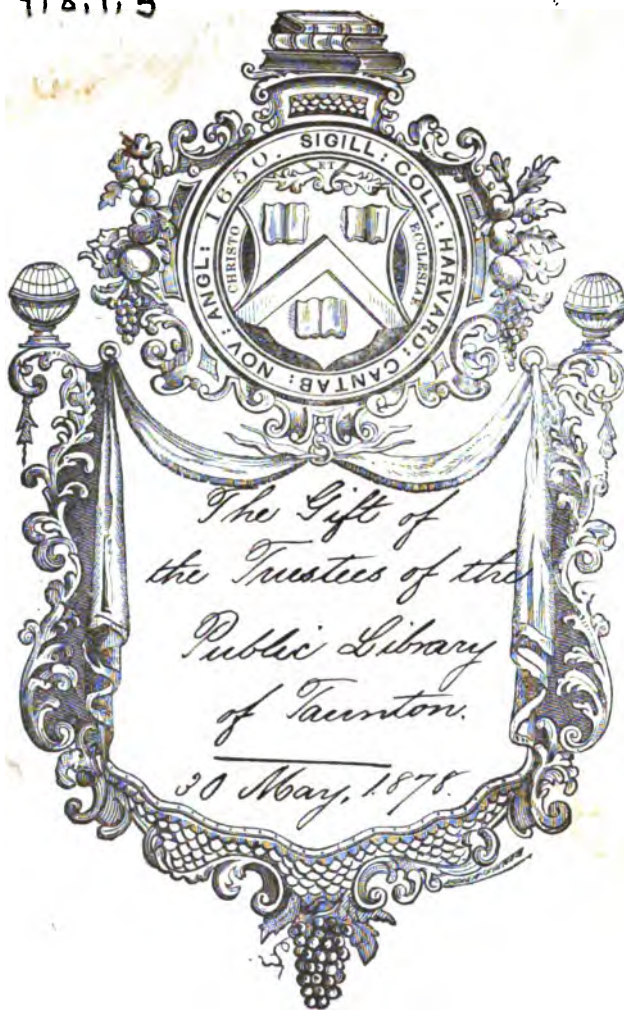

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

FINALLY,—These Rules and Regulations may be amended or repealed at any meeting by vote of the Trustees, notice of such change having been given at a previous meeting, subject to the approval of the City Council.

EXPLANATORY NOTE.

THE design in the following Catalogue is to place every work in the Library under the name or names to which it may properly be attributed, and to classify it under the head or heads to which it belongs, the specific heads being themselves arranged under those more generic in character—thus bringing all closely related subjects into juxtaposition, and enabling the reader to see at one view the resources of the Library in any given direction. It is thought that this plan avoids, to a great extent, the necessity of cross references, and anticipates doubts regarding the terminology of headings. The table of Contents is intended not only to group kindred subjects, but to suggest remoter sources of information.

In the CATALOGUE proper, each work is entered, alphabetically, under the name, if known, or pseudonyme of the author, editor or translator; if anonymous, under the name of the series to which it may belong, the periodical in which it first appeared, the body (Privy Council etc.) responsible for its publication, or under its title, beginning, whether abbreviated or not, with the first word of the original, articles excepted. First under the author's name are placed acknowledged original works, after which follow those attributed to him, those he may have edited or translated, or written, edited or translated, in connection with others. If the Christian name of a married female writer is unknown, that of her husband is substituted. Should all her works have been published before marriage, they are entered under her maiden name, if part or all since, under the later name. Pseudonyms are entered under the last name, unless descriptive in character—"Porte Crayon," "Vieux Moustache," etc. If initials only are given, the work is entered under the last initial.

Royal and oriental writers, and others known chiefly by their Christian or first names, are so entered; noble authors under their titles (Derby, Palmerston, Argyll, etc.) except when better known by their family names—Horace Walpole, for instance. Surnames with the prefixes de, d', da, di, von, van, are placed under the letter beginning the name (as in Lamartine; Vinci, Cesnola, Humboldt, Oosterzee, etc.) and not under the prefix, unless they have become English surnames (Da Ponte, D'Israeli, DeQuincey, VanSantvoord, etc.) La, Le, L', Las, Du as in La Fontaine, Le Sage, L'Estrange, Las Cases, Du Boisgobey, are considered parts of names and govern the entry. Foreign compound surnames are entered under the first name (Mendelssohn, Stäel, etc.) except when the last is more familiar, as Fénelon, Voltaire, etc. Latin authors are inserted under their anglicized names, if there be any variation, with the original forms following in parentheses. German proper names with diphthongs, like Hackländer, Höfer, Müller, are entered as if written Hacklander, etc., not Hacklaender, etc.; though such names as Goethe, Tautphoeus, etc. form exceptions to this rule, being generally so written.

The collective publications of societies having no common editor, are placed under the name of the society (Camden, etc.) the individual works being entered under their respective authors or editors. Other series of works, the joint production of several writers, will be found under the editor, or, in default of one, under the first-named author, with cross-references from his associates. Sequels, like all continuous publications, are denoted by progressive volume numbers. Books in which pictures constitute the text and letter-press the illustrations, are catalogued under the names of the designers or engravers. Words in parentheses following titles refer, unless the contrary is apparent, to the works in which the publications in question may be found; figures in parentheses indicate the number of copies; words in brackets denote works, already published, reissued with changed titles. Names entered interrogatively imply, in some cases, a suggested authorship; in others, that doubt exists regarding the authorship attributed. The abbreviation Ed. is used as an equivalent for Editor, Compiler, Reporter and others, original authors and translators excepted, under whose auspices books may have been published.

The CLASSIFIED INDEX is divided into twelve general departments, each of which is sub-divided under specific heads. Within the sub-divisions, those books which admit of minuter classification are so arranged, that which is general taking precedence of that which is specific. Most of the larger sub-divisions, however, are placed in alphabetical order, either by titles, subjects, or authors. Others are arranged in the chronological or geographical order into which they most naturally fall. For instance: under "Physics," the general treatises on Natural Philosophy are placed first, after which are entered those on Electricity, Optics, etc.; individual works of fiction, poems and dramas are alphabetized by titles, individual biography by subjects, and essays by authors; "Political History" is arranged in the order of its Ancient, European, British, French and American subjects.

The term "Collected Writings," as here used, refers to the entire or partial collection of one authors' writings; "Selections and Quotations," to extracts from several authors in one publication. Cyclopædias, Dictionaries, Collected Writings, Periodicals, Sermons, Lectures, Speeches, Essays and Public Documents devoted to one subject are placed under the specific head, or classed by themselves in the department to which the subject belongs. Books relating to two or more countries of a general division of the globe, are placed under that division; those relating to more than one division, under "Universal and Miscellaneous." Prose translations of classic poets are retained under Poetry notwithstanding any changes in title. In the Index, the surname of the author and the library number, not the title of his works, indicate the volume in which special treatises, separately entered, may be found. "Pseudo History, Biography and Travels" includes, not only avowedly fictitious works, but some which bear the semblance of veracious narratives; the alleged events being more or less imaginary, or fabulous in character. As this class was formed from memory after the Catalogue was substantially finished, the following books belonging to it, entered elsewhere, were not included: The New Hyperion, "Strahan," 571.9; Civilization of the Western Barbarians, "Ah-Chin-Le," 695.17; Le Curé Manqué, Courcillon, 515.3; Chronicle of the Cid, Southey, 223.7; The Coming Race, Lytton, 456.10 and 697.32; and the works of Jules Verne. Lives, translations, and other foreign matter incorporated in any given works, are credited to their respective writers. Miscellaneous translations occurring in collective works are entered in the prose or poetical categories to which they belong.

Books intended for juvenile readers, exclusive of the "Stories" and "Didactic Letters and Counsels," separately classed, are indicated by daggers in the margin of the Classified Index. The italicized names in the Index refer to fuller names in the Catalogue. The orthography of the respective title-pages has been generally preserved, (including intentional mis-spelling and that of early editions) except authors' names, which are made to conform to present usage. Some publications, not themselves star books, are so marked because bound with those which are. Books devoted to antiquarian researches in the countries bordering the Levant, will be found under "The East," "The Holy Land," and "Antiquities, Manners and Customs;" and the usual books of travel in the same regions, under "Greece," "Turkey," "Asia," and "Egypt."

To avoid the confusion incident to a multiplicity of subdivisions, many specific heads are made to embrace works on collateral themes, too few in number to admit of separate classification. It should be borne in mind, too, that the insertion of a work under a given head does not necessarily imply that it is wholly devoted to that subject. Burlesque imitations of popular novels will be found in "Facetiae;" the heading "Temperance" embraces works in which it is viewed in its legal and moral aspects; that of "Woman" in which the subject is considered from historical, moral, and social points of view. The following cross-references will indicate analogous subjects necessarily placed in different general departments: From "Mythology" to "Collective" and "Ancient Biography;" from "Biography" to "Scripture Biography;" from "History" to "Scripture" and "Ecclesiastical History;" from "Ethnology" and "Science and Religion," to "Natural History;" from "Antiquities, Manners and Customs," to the corresponding category under Theology; from "Jews" to "Scripture History;" from "Fine Arts" to "Æsthetics;" from "Recreative Arts" to "Physical Training;" from the personal memoirs of rulers to the histories of the countries governed by them; from "Genealogy" to Massachusetts local histories; and generally, especially in History, Biography and Travels from the smaller to the larger categories.
